EAGLER TAKEN INTO CUSTODY
YESTERDAY

Arrested Sunday Morning At
Five O'clock In Hayloft of
Carrolltown Barn

OFFICERS CATCH HIM ASLEEP

Herman Eagler, the LaJosa young man who shot and painfully wounded Gilbert Tozer at LaJosa on Sunday morning, June 16th, while attempting to evade arrest on a charge of stealing an automobile belonging to M. J. Hurd, was placed in jail yesterday by Deputy Sheriff F. S. Gilliland and Sergeant O'Donnell of the State Constabulary.

Following the shooting of Tozer, Eagler made his way to Thomas Mills, Indiana county, where he spent the night at a farm house. The next day he went to Patton by train, the local police failing to make an effort to apprehend him.

At Patton he visited the brickyard and there sold the revolver with which he did the shooting to an Italian for 75 cents. The gun was a cheap 32 calibre of the U. S. brand, the same kind of a gun as that which figured in the Ardary shooting.

From Patton he proceeded to Loreto, Cambria county, where he secured work with Frank White, who is married to Eagler's cousin. He was employed on the farm of Charles M. Schwab, the steel king.

On Saturday while driving along the road on a load of hay Eagler was recognized by a resident of the upper river section who was motoring near Loreto. Upon his arrival at LaJosa this person notified Guy Tozer, father of the boy who was shot. Mr. Tozer communicated with District Attorney Arnold at 10 o'clock Sunday night and informed him of Eagler's whereabouts. Calling in Sergeant O'Donnell of the State Constabulary and Deputy Sheriff Gilliland acquainted them with the situation and plans were laid for the arrest.

Mr. Tozer was directed to get the warrant for Eagler's arrest and take it to the headquarters of the State Police at Carrolltown and Sergeant O'Donnell got in touch with the officers over the phone and explained matters to them.

When Mr. Tozer arrived at Carrolltown he found Officers Lamoreux and Peters awaiting him and they proceeded at once to the Schwab farm where they located White and he told them that Eagler was in the hayloft at the barn nearby. The officers entered the haymow and pounced upon the young man while he was sleeping and arrested him without any trouble.

The arrest was made at 5 o'clock Sunday morning and the officers then returned to Carrolltown with their prisoner. Messrs O'Donnell and Gilliland motored to Carrolltown Sunday morning and brought Eagler to jail here yesterday afternoon.

In conversation with the officers he admitted the shooting, saying that when he ran into the woods Tozer confronted him with a gun in his hands and he also had his gun out ready for business. That he considered the thing as being in the nature of a fight and the first blow would count, so he shot Tozer before he could shoot him.

Eagler does not appear to be much of a desperado, the officers being of the opinion he is more or less defective mentally and a dangerous man to be at large.

Tozer continues to improve but is still confined to the hospital.

Caldwell Boy
MAY BE ALIVE
IS REPORT

Garnival Woman Claims She Saw Him With Show In
State of Alabama

STORY WILL BE INVESTIGATED

There is a possibility that Arthur Caldwell, the eight year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell of Rockton, who mysteriously disappeared on the afternoon of Tuesday, May 9, 1917, is still living.

Mrs. T. F. Ward, who is connected with the United Amusement company the carnival that was in DuBois all of last week, claims that she saw the Caldwell boy with the Morris Miller company shows at Meridan, Miss. She had known of the disappearance and had talked with the boy who told her the facts in the case. He told a story of the reasons why he had run away, alleging that he was not receiving proper treatment. At the time of the disappearance of the Caldwell boy the Morris Miller shows were declared to have been showing within fifteen miles of Rockton. The woman could not remember the name of the town where the carnival was showing forth. The Ward woman left with the shows on Saturday night. Asked why she had not told her story earlier in the week she said that she had but that no one credited it.

While perhaps this is only another of the many stories that were advanced to account for the disappearance of the Caldwell boy, it is worth investigation.

It is possible that the boy made his way to the town where the carnival was shown, but it seems almost impossible that he could have done this without being seen by anyone. The description of the boy was published broadcast throughout the neighborhood and it is certain that almost everyone knew just how he was dressed and in general how he looked.

It is probable, however, that this latest clue will be fully investigated, as it is understood that the parents of the boy have never given up hope for his recovery. The story of alleged ill-treatment is not in accordance with the facts as ascertained in talks with the family and with neighbors. So far as known the lad had a good home and could not reasonably raise any objections to his treatment.

FALSE ALARM SUNDAY MORNING

Mooley coughed out a fire alarm about 9 o'clock Sunday morning for a fire in District 3. The firemen were promptly on the move and when they arrived at the home of Squire W. E. Kratzer on Turnpike avenue they found a burning flue had excited some person into believing the house was on fire, hence the alarm.

OF FIREMAN

The Executive Committee of the Central Pennsylvania District Volunteer Firemen's association will meet at Houtzdale tomorrow for the purpose of deciding upon the time and place for the holding of this year's district convention.

No convention was held last year on account of war conditions and as Houtzdale had been agreed upon as the place for same before it was decided to call it off that town will no doubt be given this year's convention if she wants it.

WILL REBUILD McGEORGE ROAD

C. E. Hoover and Harry E. Hummelbaugh left this morning for the Goshen Club House where they will have their headquarters for some time while rebuilding the old Pete McGeorge road across the mountain from the Spence place clean through to the Punksutawney camp.

The brush will be cut away from the road and the stumps and racks blasted out for a distance of five feet on either side of the present roadway. The road will be placed in shape for automobile traffic. The work is being done at the direction and expense of the Punksutawney Rod and Gun club which recently purchased four thousand acres of wild land north of town and lying between Laurel and Trout runs.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES AT PITTSBURGH

Edward Dittmer, a former resident of Clearfield, died at a hospital near Pittsburgh on Saturday last as the result of a general breakdown and an illness of many weeks duration.

The deceased was a plumber by occupation but worked in the butcher shop of his brother-in-law J. A. Heller here in Clearfield some sixteen or eighteen years ago.

He had been a resident of Indiana Pa. for the last ten years and suffered a paralytic stroke there about one year ago. His physical decline had been rapid since that time and several weeks ago was removed to Pittsburgh from the Clearfield hospital where he had been under treatment.

He was about 60 years of age and was married to Miss Rebie Cooper Leavy, of Clearfield some fifteen years ago, who survives him together with one son.

The remains will be brought to Clearfield and the funeral will be held from the home of Mrs. A. B. Leavy, Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment in Hillcrest cemetery.

GERMAN CREWS SINK
SURRENDERED FLEETHUN NAVAL ADMIRAL ORDERS HIS ENTIRE
BATTLE FLEET SUNK TO COVER
HIS DISGRACE

LOSS TO ALLIES IS MILLIONS

LONDON, June 22—All the German battleships and battle cruisers interned at Scapa Flow were sunk by their crews yesterday, excepting the Baden, the Admiralty announced last night. The Baden is still afloat.

Five light cruisers were sunk and three were beached. Eighteen destroyers were beached and the rest sunk.

The Admiralty statement adds: "The German rear admiral and most of the Germans are in custody aboard our ships."

"Some of the German boats refused to halt when ordered to do so and were fired upon, small numbers of the Germans being killed or wounded."

In accordance with the armistice, the ships were interned with skeleton crews and with no British guards on board.

LONDON, June 22—Admiral Von Reuter, commander of the surrendered German fleet, personally ordered its scuttling by his crews, in the belief that the armistice had ended. The days of himself, according to the Daily Express, in the following:

"I ordered the sinking in the belief that the armistice was terminated and followed the German navy's tradition which knows no surrender."

In the firing on boats in which German sailors escaped, 20 men were killed and ten wounded.

The Baden was towed into Swandister Bay this afternoon where she sank in the fallows, the Daily Express learns.

Not a single German ship out of the fleet is now afloat.

All masts protruding fly the British ensign.

At 7 o'clock this morning a heavy explosion took place where one of the battleships sank.

All German prisoners are aboard the Royal Sovereign.

The British fleet took to seaward this morning.

"The admiralty will probably have no further statement to-day," said an officer of the navy publicity department this afternoon.

"Does the admiralty believe that the story of the sinking has been fully told?" I asked.

"For the present at least—yes," was the answer.

Here is an interesting situation.

Out of the mighty fleet of 71 ships of all classes, not one remains afloat, following the daring, concerted action of the German crews.

Four hundred thousand tons, valued at $350,000,000 disappeared, and the admiralty tells the story in exactly 130 words.

History's most remarkable naval destruction, which in the short space of four hours wiped out a fleet more powerful than the entire French navy, definitely ends the naval power, which disputed the supremacy of the sea at Jutland and once threatened Brittany's rule of the waves.

In four hours this mighty armada is wiped out, and a small body of men in London tell it in 130 words.

Today's greatest question is "why?" That is what the British wants to know.

Why were the Germans allowed to destroy the fleet held in trust by the British navy pending its disposition. There is no answer.

But already the first evidence of the admiralty's "alibi" is contained in last night's statement, that "in accordance with the armistice the German ships were interned with German skeleton crews."

A high British navy officer says that the seacocks could have been rendered harmless at any time by sealing them with acetylene blow pipes.

After the first blow of the news, naval officers have begun to realize that the Germans have achieved a double purpose—they have not only prevented the final surrender of their fleet, but have blocked the Scapa flow anchorage.

THE ZERO HOUR

The hour when Germany must step up to the counter of justice and pay for her wrecking of Belgium, her insults to America, her devastation of France and her under estimation of the effectiveness of England's "contemptible little army" is close at hand. All of this and for as many more crimes as one could write down if he chose to write for days at a time. It is doubtful whether any nation of people ever stood indicted before the world on so many counts as the German Empire.

There is still some doubt as to whether the government representing Germany will sign the treaty which acknowledges responsibility for the misdeeds and binds her to the payment of the bills. It is just possible that Germany's reply will be the old familiar one "you can't take hair off a toad." In that event we must take the toad though it is hardly fair to abuse the name of a poor, defenseless and altogether useful toad when there are so many other reptiles which would more fittingly represent our idea of the Hun nation.

The majority of our fighting men who have been brought face to face with the Hun and another parcel of our citizens heartily believe that we should have "taken the toad" long ago or at least have permitted the toad to work out his own salvation, including bread, while he was figuring on whether he would accept treaty terms or not but our administration conceived the idea that we should fill his belly with fats and oils; jolly him into it, be gosh, getting his John Hancock on the paper and incidentally having him in better physical condition to pay his debts after the signing. The wisdom of this course will be proven or disproven in the events of the next half century but we cannot forget that a lot of the progeny of the toad living over here "bit the hand that fed them" and there is reason to believe that the manners of their relatives across the pond have improved.

We must not underestimate the responsibilities that will be ours if the treaty is not signed. It will open up a new angle on every phase of the situation. The taking of the toad will be no little job in point of expense to this government. There really is no telling what the end would be. A renewal of hostilities would reopen all the pitfalls of our two years participation in the war and create new ones without number.

This is indeed an anxious moment. What will the morrow bring? Peace and plenty or war and want.

CIVIL SERVICE OR SIMPLE SERVICE

It is drawing near to the time for the census enumeration and as a consequence every Democrat not already in a government position who feels that he can make more money in a government job than on a regular job or in business for himself has been plugging for one of the census "plums". Chief among these plums is that of "supervisor" and for over a year the supervisor bug has been buzzing around the ears of prominent tailender Democrats in the counties of this district. Upon making application to the powers on high these loyal Democrats were told the old, old story that so far as personal preference was concerned, etc., etc., they were all right and that they deserved the job but that the Civil Service law was paramount and supreme and the conditions of that law would have to be complied with first. Of course a little thing like a Civil Service examination does not deter any real office seeker and they learned that an application on regular form must be filed by July first after which time all would be duly considered.

So far as local contenders were concerned they were perfectly satisfied with the arrangements of a true Democracy and all lived in the sincerest belief and hope that the square deal would be theirs. But a bomb shell landed in camp this week when The Republican announced editorially that "boss" Costello of one of the neighboring counties had landed the plum. The Republican paid high tribute to the aforesaid Costello but offered no condolence to the ones who had so studiously filled out their Civil Service blanks. Yes, Civil Service is sometimes not so civil.

of an estate is no easy task. If put on the shoulders of an individual it demands an amount of time and care that few men can willingly spare. Then, should anything happen to the individual before the estate is settled confusion and delay, with accompanying loss will frequently result. Our Trust Department, with its added strength of a National Bank and with fees set by law is the proper answer for proper administration.

Interested in Film Productions to Be Made at Methodist Celebration at Columbus, O.

DR. JAMES E. CROWTHER AND D. W. GRIFFITH.

The support of the motion picture world as represented by D. W. Griffith, well known film producer, was assured the Methodist Centenary Celebration at a conference in Columbus, the celebration being represented by Dr. S. Earl Taylor of New York, Dr. J. E. Crowther of Seattle, Dr. Fred Fisher of New York and Dr. C. F. Reiser of New York.

Mr. Griffith, in addition to promising to make a film of all important features of the Centenary Celebration, strongly urged the use of motion pictures in the advancement of religious work. He spoke strongly of the possibilities of the motion pictures under proper supervision being made to carry a religious message further than any known form of communication.

Dr. S. Earl Taylor, director general of the Centenary Celebration, made the statement that "we want pictures that talk the universal language. I believe the message of peace and good will should be preached to the world through pictures."

"I am glad to know they are going to give motion pictures a practical demonstration at the Centenary Celebration," said Mr. Griffith. "The celebration will give the people in towns and villages a wonderful opportunity to visit the entire world by going no further than Columbus. There will be an extraordinary impression produced by seeing these villages of China, Japan and India, not peopled by amateush actors, but inhabited by real natives from foreign lands."

"I have been astounded beyond measure at the breadth, extent and scope of the entire scheme as it has been revealed to me by Dr. Taylor, Dr. Crowther, Dr. Reiser and others. I understand the Methodist Church has $100,000,000 and is going to celebrate its success with something more nearly resembling a world fair than anything else to which it can be compared. One would think that a great nation at least is behind the movement. Doubtless something greater than the greatest nation is behind it—a reawakened faith and faith inspired to bind up the wounds of a torn and outraged world."

PRETTY HOME OF BRICK AND STUCCO

Will Appeal Strongly to Automobile Owner.

DESIGN OF BUNGALOW TYPE

Exceptionally Attractive Home, With Garage of Same Style—Interior Arrangement Will Challenge Attention of Housekeeper.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose three-cent stamp for reply.

In the era of home building that is here there will be, more than ever, much individuality shown in the design accepted, because those who are building homes now have the advantage of many different styles of architecture and home designs that have proven best through use. The home builder usually builds but once in a lifetime and when he builds he erects the type of home that meets his needs, suits his ideas of exterior appearance and is arranged to his taste.

Accompanying this article is shown the exterior view and floor plan of an exceptionally attractive brick house, with a garage of the same style of architecture. This house will appeal immediately to the automobile owner, while the interior arrangement will challenge the attention of every housekeeper.

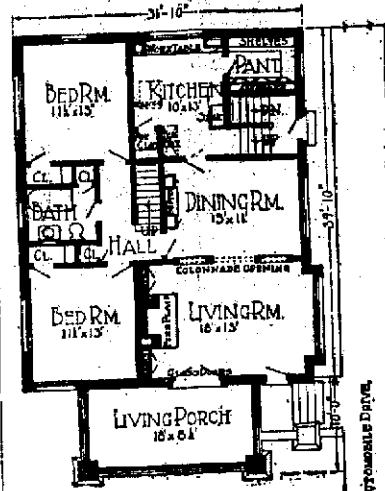

There are thousands of home builders to whom brick houses have an especial appeal. Brick is the oldest of building materials, having been used in some form or other, thousands of years before civilization began. This may be the reason for the preference, but there is no denying that brick homes are attractive and have a very substantial air.

The design shown herewith is of the bungalow type of a story and a half house. The exterior wall in the gables is 13 by 11 feet, by a colonnade, which extends nearly across the side of the room, making them practically one large room. Each of the dining room is the kitchen, 13 by 10 feet, the side entrance near the garage and the basement stairway. On the other side are two bedrooms, 11 feet 6 inches by 13 feet, with the bathroom between. A hall leading off the dining room connects the two bedrooms and bath. Out of this same hall are the stairs leading to the three rooms of the second floor.

Upstairs are two large bedrooms and a sewing room. The bedroom to the right of the building is 15 feet 6 inches by 11 feet, and the one to the left is 12 by 11 feet. The sewing room is in the rear gable, 13 feet by 9 feet. All three rooms and a toilet open off a center hall.

There are numerous little features of this house that will please the housekeeper. It will be noted that there is an abundance of closets—four downstairs and three upstairs. It also will be seen that built into the living and dining room and kitchen are many features that will make the work of caring for the home more easy. There is a built in buffet in the dining room, while the worktable, shelves and pantry in the kitchen are so arranged as to save steps.

In considering the erection of a home this year the prospective builder will closely study many home designs. What will suit one will not suit another. But for the person who wants a rather large modern brick house of extraordinary architectural beauty this design will be suited.

is covered with stucco, which adds to its appearance.

The graceful lines of both the house and garage, the living porch projection of the house, with an entrance on either side; the brick porch pillars, and the window projections combine to make this house and garage of extraordinary exterior beauty. It is the interior arrangement, however, that the feminine members of the family will examine with interest.

The house contains eight rooms, including the living porch and bath. It is set on concrete foundations and has a cement basement under the whole structure, including the living porch. The dimensions of the house are 31 feet 10 inches by 30 feet 10 inches.

Second Floor Plan.

with the living porch projecting 10 feet. The living porch is 18 feet by 8 feet 6 inches, which is a good-sized room. The entrances on both sides lead into the living porch, which is connected with the living room by double glass doors. The entrance to the right on the automobile drive is intended as a convenience for motorists, while the other entrance is at the end of a sidewalk and is for pedestrians.

The living room is 15 feet by 13 feet. On the interior end wall is the fireplace, with bookcases on either side. At the other end is a set of three windows, in a bay. The living room is connected with a large dining room

The cost of building now is higher than it was before the war. This is because the cost of producing the materials and of the labor that goes into the building is higher. But the percentage of increase in the cost of building is nowhere near that of other necessities. Prices of materials have been stabilized for the year—there is the positive assurance that they will not be higher, neither will they be lower. And every indication is that they will go higher in 1920. Thus does the prospective home builder have the assurance that it will cost no more to build now than a year or a few years from now, while by building at once he will have the use of his home and will save just that much rent.

Owning a home and living in it, however, has many advantages over renting. When a home is paid for it is a great asset in a financial way. The family that lives in their own home have many advantages in a social way. And there is the satisfaction of having a home planned as you want it and of the size you want; decorated to suit your taste—in fact, a home of your own.

London is a Jazz. Jazz halls are springing up like mushrooms all over London. For popularity they rival the movies. Women who have an hour to spare while on a shopping trip or between tea and dinner engagements, now pass the time pleasantly jazzing.

A syndicate of American business men is snapping up every available building.

It is puzzling to know how decorators, electricians and bands are requisitioned so quickly. Buildings which a few days ago stood drearily empty and sadly out of repair, today are rose painted, pink shaded halls filled with laughing dancers.

The jazz germ is as rampant as was the "flu" buzz some months ago.

Records by the Ton. Records of the selective service now in the hands of the adjutant general of the army at Washington, if stacked end to end, would make a line of filing cases seven miles long, four feet high and 14 inches wide. Twenty acres of floor space will be required to house the papers, officials say, and a force of between 4,000 and 5,000 will be necessary to sort, file and index them.

WHEAT AND RYE CROPS ABOVE NORMAL

Record Crop Of Pennsylvania Wheat Also Predicted By State Agricultural Official

GREAT CORN WEATHER TOO

Secretary of Agriculture, Fred Rasmussen, reports the estimated condition of crops in Pennsylvania on June 1, according to figures compiled by the Bureau of Statistics, as follows:

WHEAT—Weather conditions were favorable during the month of May and wheat still continued to improve. The condition is estimated at 105 per cent compared with normal, and forecasts a yield of 21.5 bushels per acre. On this basis, the total production will reach 33,932,800 bushels and will be Pennsylvania's record crop. The yield last year was estimated at 26,023,974 bushels.

Some damage from rust, smut and fly is reported from scattered sections but it is believed that the injury will not be serious.

The area of wheat abandoned this spring was so small that no deduction is made in the acreage on that account.

RYE—Rye is in splendid condition and forecasts 103 per cent, compared with a full crop. This indicates a yield of 19.6 bushels per acre and a total production of 5,378,000 bushels. The production last year was estimated at 4,676,500 bushels.

OATS—Due to weather conditions, the sowing of oats covered a long period this year as it was begun in March in the southern counties and was not completed in some of the northern tier counties on June 1.

The area of oats is estimated at 1,133,717 acres which is practically 100 per cent, compared with last year. The condition on June 1 is 95 per cent, compared with normal and indicates a yield of 34.2 bushels per acre and a total production of 38,773,000 bushels. The crop will probably be above or below these figures according to change in condition from now until harvest is above or below the average condition. The crop last year was estimated at 44,103,000 bushels.

BARLEY—The estimated area of barley is 14,000 acres which is the same as last year. The condition is 97 per cent, and indicates a yield of 407,400 bushels. The 1918 crop was estimated at 396,200 bushels.

HAY—The outlook for hay is encouraging and shows an improvement of four points during the month of May. On June 1, appearance indicates a yield of 97 per cent, compared with normal, or 1.5 tons per acre.

It appears that there are approximately 337,300 tons of hay in the farmers' hands. This is eight per cent, of last year's crop.

Due to the late spring the Pennsylvania farmers are facing a most strenuous season to take care of corn cultivation, wheat, rye, oats and hay harvest.

In Denmark and Sweden peat fibre is being used to make textile goods. The "peat wool" is made into matting, carpets, soles for footwear, and a variety of other things. In some cases animal hair is mixed with the fibre to give it more strength and greater wearing qualities.

The use of leather substitutes in the making of footwear, because of the present scarcity and high price of leather, recalls the fact that cork was generally used by the Roman sandal-makers for soles. It is said they sometimes applied it very thick in order to increase the stature of those ladies who wished to be thought taller than they really were.

Says We Become Cranks On Hot Water Drinking

Hopes every man and woman adopts this splendid morning habit

Why is man and woman, half the time, feeling nervous, despondent, worried; some days headachy, dull and unstrung; some days really incapacitated by illness.

If we all would practice inside-bathing, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of thousands of half-sick anaemic-looking souls with pasty, muddy complexions we should see crowds of happy, healthy rosy-cheeked people everywhere. The reason is that the human system does not rid itself each day of all the waste which it accumulates under our present mode of living. For every ounce of food and drink taken into the system nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out, else it ferments and forms poisonous-like poisons which are absorbed into the blood.

Just as necessary as it is to clean the ashes from the furnace each day, before the first will burn bright and hot, so we must each morning clear the inside organs of the previous day's accumulation of indigestible waste and body toxins. Men and women, whether sick or well, are advised to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of washing out of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the indigestible material, waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Millions of people who had their turn at constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, nervous days and sleepless nights have become real ranks about the morning inside bath. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will not cost much at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate to anyone, its cleansing, sweetening and freshening effect upon the system.

GRAMPIANINES ARE QUITE SURE THAT OLD ADAGE IS TRUE

Whistling women and crowing hens always come to some bad end" runs the old saw, while it has long been said that "he who circumventeth his neighbor in a 'hoss deal' stores up wrath for himself." Those who sort of keep track of these ancient superstitions up about the hills of Grampian, where my father fed his flock of chickens when he landed in this country several scores of years ago, had their faith in the latter abjuration strengthened by an accident which befell their "king of the hoss traders," Rolly Farwell.

Some time since Rolly traded a black horse for an old grey mare on a promise to take it back if not satisfactory plan. When the grey mare's owner rued bargain and sought to trade back there was nothing doing. However the black horse was returned and court proceedings instituted to retrieve the grey. They are still pending.

Friday last Rolly took his black horse out of the barn to give him some air and anchored him securely to a convenient telephone pole. Along came an electrical storm and with the first flash the horse fell dead. Can you beat it; well hardly.

Crawling forward to a point 150 yards in advance of his first encounter he rushed a machine gun nest, killing four and capturing six of the enemy, and taking two light machine guns. EAGLER TAKEN
INTO CUSTODY
YESTERDAY

Arrested Sunday Morning At
Five O'clock In Hayloft of
Carrolltown Barn

OFFICERS CATCH HIM ASLEEP

Herman Eagler, the LaJosa young man who shot and painfully wounded Gilbert Tozer at LaJosa on Sunday morning, June 16th, while attempting to evade arrest on a charge of stealing an automobile belonging to M. J. Hurd, was placed in jail yesterday by Deputy Sheriff F. S. Gilliland and Sergeant O'Donnell of the State Constabulary.

Following the shooting of Tozer, Eagler made his way to Thomas Mills, Indiana county, where he spent the night at a farm house. The next day he went to Patton by train, the local police failing to make an effort to apprehend him.

At Patton he visited the brickyard and there sold the revolver with which he did the shooting to an Italian for 75 cents. The gun was a cheap 32 calibre of the U. S. brand, the same kind of a gun as that which figured in the Ardary shooting.

From Patton he proceeded to Loreto, Cambria county, where he secured work with Frank White, who is married to Eagler's cousin. He was employed on the farm of Charles M. Schwab, the steel king.

On Saturday while driving along the road on a load of hay Eagler was recognized by a resident of the upper river section who was motoring near Loreto. Upon his arrival at LaJosa this person notified Guy Tozer, father of the boy who was shot. Mr. Tozer communicated with District Attorney Arnold at 10 o'clock Sunday night and informed him of Eagler's whereabouts. Calling in Sergeant O'Donnell of the State Constabulary and Deputy Sheriff Gilliland acquainted them with the situation and plans were laid for the arrest.

Mr. Tozer was directed to get the warrant for Eagler's arrest and take it to the headquarters of the State Police at Carrolltown and Sergeant O'Donnell got in touch with the officers over the phone and explained matters to them.

When Mr. Tozer arrived at Carrolltown he found Officers Lamoreux and Peters awaiting him and they proceeded at once to the Schwab farm where they located White and he told them that Eagler was in the hayloft at the barn nearby. The officers entered the haymow and pounced upon the young man while he was sleeping and arrested him without any trouble.

The arrest was made at 5 o'clock Sunday morning and the officers then returned to Carrolltown with their prisoner. Messrs O'Donnell and Gilliland motored to Carrolltown Sunday morning and brought Eagler to jail here yesterday afternoon.

In conversation with the officers he admitted the shooting, saying that when he ran into the woods Tozer confronted him with a gun in his hands and he also had his gun out ready for business. That he considered the thing as being in the nature of a fight and the first blow would count, so he shot Tozer before he could shoot him.

Eagler does not appear to be much of a desperado, the officers being of the opinion he is more or less defective mentally and a dangerous man to be at large.

Tozer continues to improve but is still confined to the hospital.

COLDWELL BOY
MAY BE ALIVE
IS REPORT

Garnival Woman Claims She Saw Him With Show In
State of Alabama

STORY WILL BE INVESTIGATED

There is a possibility that Arthur Caldwell, the eight year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell of Rockton, who mysteriously disappeared on the afternoon of Tuesday, May 9, 1917, is still living.

Mrs. T. F. Ward, who is connected with the United Amusement company the carnival that was in DuBois all of last week, claims that she saw the Caldwell boy with the Morris Miller company shows at Meridan, Miss. She had known of the disappearance and had talked with the boy who told her the facts in the case. He told a story of the reasons why he had run away, alleging that he was not receiving proper treatment. At the time of the disappearance of the Caldwell boy the Morris Miller shows were declared to have been showing within fifteen miles of Rockton. The woman could not remember the name of the town where the carnival was showing forth. The Ward woman left with the shows on Saturday night. Asked why she had not told her story earlier in the week she said that she had but that no one credited it.

While perhaps this is only another of the many stories that were advanced to account for the disappearance of the Caldwell boy, it is worth investigation.

It is possible that the boy made his way to the town where the carnival was shown, but it seems almost impossible that he could have done this without being seen by anyone. The description of the boy was published broadcast throughout the neighborhood and it is certain that almost everyone knew just how he was dressed and in general how he looked.

It is probable, however, that this latest clue will be fully investigated, as it is understood that the parents of the boy have never given up hope for his recovery. The story of alleged ill-treatment is not in accordance with the facts as ascertained in talks with the family and with neighbors. So far as known the lad had a good home and could not reasonably raise any objections to his treatment.

WILL REBUILD McGEORGE ROAD

C. E. Hoover and Harry E. Hummelbaugh left this morning for the Goshen Club House where they will have their headquarters for some time while rebuilding the old Pete McGeorge road across the mountain from the Spence place clean through to the Punksutawney camp.

The brush will be cut away from the road and the stumps and racks blasted out for a distance of five feet on either side of the present roadway. The road will be placed in shape for automobile traffic. The work is being done at the direction and expense of the Punksutawney Rod and Gun club which recently purchased four thousand acres of wild land north of town and lying between Laurel and Trout runs.

Mr. Hoover is an experienced mountain road builder and his assuming the job is a guarantee of the right kind of a road.

GERMAN CREWS SINK
SURRENDERED FLEETHUN NAVAL ADMIRAL ORDERS HIS ENTIRE
HIS DISGRACE

LOSS TO ALLIES IS MILLIONS

LONDON, June 22—All the German battleships and battle cruisers interned at Scapa Flow were sunk by their crews yesterday, excepting the Baden, the Admiralty announced last night. The Baden is still afloat.

Five light cruisers were sunk and three were beached. Eighteen destroyers were beached and the rest sunk.

The Admiralty statement adds: "The German rear admiral and most of the Germans are in custody aboard our ships."

"Some of the German boats refused to halt when ordered to do so and were fired upon, small numbers of the Germans being killed or wounded."

In accordance with the armistice, the ships were interned with skeleton crews and with no British guards on board.

LONDON, June 22—Admiral Von Reuter, commander of the surrendered German fleet, personally ordered its scuttling by his crews, in the belief that the armistice had ended. The days of himself, according to the Daily Express, in the following:

"I ordered the sinking in the belief that the armistice was terminated and followed the German navy's tradition which knows no surrender."

In the firing on boats in which German sailors escaped, 20 men were killed and ten wounded.

The Baden was towed into Swandister Bay this afternoon where she sank in the fallows, the Daily Express learns.

Not a single German ship out of the fleet is now afloat.

All masts protruding fly the British ensign.

At 7 o'clock this morning a heavy explosion took place where one of the battleships sank.

All German prisoners are aboard the Royal Sovereign.

The British fleet took to seaward this morning.

"The admiralty will probably have no further statement to-day," said an officer of the navy publicity department this afternoon.

"Does the admiralty believe that the story of the sinking has been fully told?" I asked.

"For the present at least—yes," was the answer.

Here is an interesting situation.

Out of the mighty fleet of 71 ships of all classes, not one remains afloat, following the daring, concerted action of the German crews.

Four hundred thousand tons, valued at $350,000,000 disappeared, and the admiralty tells the story in exactly 130 words.

History's most remarkable naval destruction, which in the short space of four hours wiped out a fleet more powerful than the entire French navy, definitely ends the naval power, which disputed the supremacy of the sea at Jutland and once threatened Brittany's rule of the waves.

In four hours this mighty armada is wiped out, and a small body of men in London tell it in 130 words.

Today's greatest question is "why?" That is what the British wants to know.

Why were the Germans allowed to destroy the fleet held in trust by the British navy pending its disposition. There is no answer.

But already the first evidence of the admiralty's "alibi" is contained in last night's statement, that "in accordance with the armistice the German ships were interned with German skeleton crews."

A high British navy officer says that the seacocks could have been rendered harmless at any time by sealing them with acetylene blow pipes.

After the first blow of the news, naval officers have begun to realize that the Germans have achieved a double purpose—they have not only prevented the final surrender of their fleet, but have blocked the Scapa flow anchorage.

OLD MEN CAN'T PLAY BOYS'

in the game is attempting to take a throw from short spaced the ball with his good right thumb. The impact fractured the knuckle of the member and it will be some time before that thumb gets back into the sparring business.

THE ZERO HOUR

The hour when Germany must step up to the counter of justice and pay for her wrecking of Belgium, her insults to America, her devastation of France and her under estimation of the effectiveness of England's "contemptible little army" is close at hand. All of this and for as many more crimes as one could write down if he chose to write for days at a time. It is doubtful whether any nation of people ever stood indicted before the world on so many counts as the German Empire.

There is still some doubt as to whether the government representing Germany will sign the treaty which acknowledges responsibility for the misdeeds and binds her to the payment of the bills. It is just possible that Germany's reply will be the old familiar one "you can't take hair off a toad." In that event we must take the toad though it is hardly fair to abuse the name of a poor, defenseless and altogether useful toad when there are so many other reptiles which would more fittingly represent our idea of the Hun nation.

The majority of our fighting men who have been brought face to face with the Hun and another parcel of our citizens heartily believe that we should have "taken the toad" long ago or at least have permitted the toad to work out his own salvation, including bread, while he was figuring on whether he would accept treaty terms or not but our administration conceived the idea that we should fill his belly with fats and oils; jolly him into it, be gosh, getting his John Hancock on the paper and incidentally having him in better physical condition to pay his debts after the signing. The wisdom of this course will be proven or disproven in the events of the next half century but we cannot forget that a lot of the progeny of the toad living over here "bit the hand that fed them" and there is reason to believe that the manners of their relatives across the pond have improved.

We must not underestimate the responsibilities that will be ours if the treaty is not signed. It will open up a new angle on every phase of the situation. The taking of the toad will be no little job in point of expense to this government. There really is no telling what the end would be. A renewal of hostilities would reopen all the pitfalls of our two years participation in the war and create new ones without number.

This is indeed an anxious moment. What will the morrow bring? Peace and plenty or war and want.

CIVIL SERVICE OR SIMPLE SERVICE

It is drawing near to the time for the census enumeration and as a consequence every Democrat not already in a government position who feels that he can make more money in a government job than on a regular job or in business for himself has been plugging for one of the census "plums". Chief among these plums is that of "supervisor" and for over a year the supervisor bug has been buzzing around the ears of prominent tailender Democrats in the counties of this district. Upon making application to the powers on high these loyal Democrats were told the old, old story that so far as personal preference was concerned, etc., etc., they were all right and that they deserved the job but that the Civil Service law was paramount and supreme and the conditions of that law would have to be complied with first. Of course a little thing like a Civil Service examination does not deter any real office seeker and they learned that an application on regular form must be filed by July first after which time all would be duly considered.

So far as local contenders were concerned they were perfectly satisfied with the arrangements of a true Democracy and all lived in the sincerest belief and hope that the square deal would be theirs. But a bomb shell landed in camp this week when The Republican announced editorially that "boss" Costello of one of the neighboring counties had landed the plum. The Republican paid high tribute to the aforesaid Costello but offered no condolence to the ones who had so studiously filled out their Civil Service blanks. Yes, Civil Service is sometimes not so civil.

The Proper Administration

of an estate is no easy task. If put on the shoulders of an individual it demands an amount of time and care that few men can willingly spare. Then, should anything happen to the individual before the estate is settled confusion and delay, with accompanying loss will frequently result. Our Trust Department, with its added strength of a National Bank and with fees set by law is the proper answer for proper administration.

Interested in Film Productions to Be Made at Methodist Celebration at Columbus, O.

DR. JAMES E. CROWTHER AND D. W. GRIFFITH.

The support of the motion picture world as represented by D. W. Griffith, well known film producer, was assured the Methodist Centenary Celebration at a conference in Columbus, the celebration being represented by Dr. S. Earl Taylor of New York, Dr. J. E. Crowther of Seattle, Dr. Fred Fisher of New York and Dr. C. F. Reiser of New York.

Mr. Griffith, in addition to promising to make a film of all important features of the Centenary Celebration, strongly urged the use of motion pictures in the advancement of religious work. He spoke strongly of the possibilities of the motion pictures under proper supervision being made to carry a religious message further than any known form of communication.

Dr. S. Earl Taylor, director general of the Centenary Celebration, made the statement that "we want pictures that talk the universal language. I believe the message of peace and good will should be preached to the world through pictures." "I am glad to know they are going to give motion pictures a practical demonstration at the Centenary Celebration," said Mr. Griffith. "The celebration will give the people in towns and villages a wonderful opportunity to visit the entire world by going no further than Columbus. There will be an extraordinary impression produced by seeing these villages of China, Japan and India, not peopled by amateush actors, but inhabited by real natives from foreign lands."

"I have been astounded beyond measure at the breadth, extent and scope of the entire scheme as it has been revealed to me by Dr. Taylor, Dr. Crowther, Dr. Reiser and others. I understand the Methodist Church has $100,000,000 and is going to celebrate its success with something more nearly resembling a world fair than anything else to which it can be compared. One would think that a great nation at least is behind the movement. Doubtless something greater than the greatest nation is behind it—a reawakened faith and faith inspired to bind up the wounds of a torn and outraged world."

PRETTY HOME OF BRICK AND STUCCO

Will Appeal Strongly to Automobile Owner.

DESIGN OF BUNGALOW TYPE

Exceptionally Attractive Home, With Garage of Same Style—Interior Arrangement Will Challenge Attention of Housekeeper.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose three-cent stamp for reply.

In the era of home building that is here there will be, more than ever, much individuality shown in the design accepted, because those who are building homes now have the advantage of many different styles of architecture and home designs that have proven best through use. The home builder usually builds but once in a lifetime and when he builds he erects the type of home that meets his needs, suits his ideas of exterior appearance and is arranged to his taste.

Accompanying this article is shown the exterior view and floor plan of an exceptionally attractive brick house, with a garage of the same style of architecture. This house will appeal immediately to the automobile owner, while the interior arrangement will challenge the attention of every housekeeper.

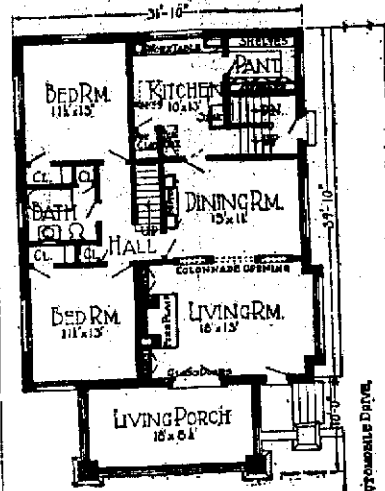

There are thousands of home builders to whom brick houses have an especial appeal. Brick is the oldest of building materials, having been used, in some form or other, thousands of years before civilization began. This may be the reason for the preference, but there is no denying that brick homes are attractive and have a very substantial air.

The design shown herewith is of the bungalow type of a story and a half house. The exterior wall in the gables is 13 by 11 feet, by a colonnade, which extends nearly across the side of the room, making them practically one large room. Each of the dining room is the kitchen, 13 by 10 feet, the side entrance near the garage and the basement stairway. On the other side are two bedrooms, 11 feet 6 inches by 13 feet, with the bathroom between. A hall leading off the dining room connects the two bedrooms and bath. Out of this same hall are the stairs leading to the three rooms of the second floor.

Upstairs are two large bedrooms and a sewing room. The bedroom to the right of the building is 15 feet 6 inches by 11 feet, and the one to the left is 12 by 11 feet. The sewing room is in the rear gable, 13 feet by 9 feet. All three rooms and a toilet open off a center hall.

There are numerous little features of this house that will please the housekeeper. It will be noted that there is an abundance of closets—four downstairs and three upstairs. It also will be seen that built into the living and dining room and kitchen are many features that will make the work of caring for the home more easy. There is a built in buffet in the dining room, while the worktable, shelves and pantry in the kitchen are so arranged as to save steps.

In considering the erection of a home this year the prospective builder will closely study many home designs. What will suit one will not suit another. But for the person who wants a rather large modern brick house of extraordinary architectural beauty this design will be suited.

is covered with stucco, which adds to its appearance.

The graceful lines of both the house and garage, the living porch projection of the house, with an entrance on either side; the brick porch pillars, and the window projections combine to make this house and garage of extraordinary exterior beauty. It is the interior arrangement, however, that the feminine members of the family will examine with interest.

The house contains eight rooms, including the living porch and bath. It is set on concrete foundations and has a cement basement under the whole structure, including the living porch. The dimensions of the house are 31 feet 10 inches by 30 feet 10 inches.

Second Floor Plan.

with the living porch projecting 10 feet. The living porch is 18 feet by 8 feet 6 inches, which is a good-sized room. The entrances on both sides lead into the living porch, which is connected with the living room by double glass doors. The entrance to the right on the automobile drive is intended as a convenience for motorists, while the other entrance is at the end of a sidewalk and is for pedestrians.

The living room is 15 feet by 13 feet. On the interior end wall is the fireplace, with bookcases on either side. At the other end is a set of three windows, in a bay. The living room is connected with a large dining room

The cost of building now is higher than it was before the war. This is because the cost of producing the materials and of the labor that goes into the building is higher. But the percentage of increase in the cost of building is nowhere near that of other necessities. Prices of materials have been stabilized for the year—there is the positive assurance that they will not be higher, neither will they be lower. And every indication is that they will go higher in 1920. Thus does the prospective home builder have the assurance that it will cost no more to build now than a year or a few years from now, while by building at once he will have the use of his home and will save just that much rent.

Owning a home and living in it, however, has many advantages over renting. When a home is paid for it is a great asset in a financial way. The family that lives in their own home have many advantages in a social way. And there is the satisfaction of having a home planned as you want it and of the size you want; decorated to suit your taste—in fact, a home of your own.

London is a Jazz. Jazz halls are springing up like mushrooms all over London. For popularity they rival the movies. Women who have an hour to spare while on a shopping trip or between tea and dinner engagements, now pass the time pleasantly jazzing.

A syndicate of American business men is snapping up every available building.

It is puzzling to know how decorators, electricians and bands are requisitioned so quickly. Buildings which a few days ago stood drearily empty and sadly out of repair, today are rose painted, pink shaded halls filled with laughing dancers.

The jazz genre is as rampant as was the "flu" buzz some months ago.

Records by the Ton. Records of the selective service now in the hands of the adjutant general of the army at Washington, if stacked end to end, would make a line of filing cases seven miles long, four feet high and 14 inches wide. Twenty acres of floor space will be required to house the papers, officials say, and a force of between 4,000 and 5,000 will be necessary to sort, file and index them.

WHEAT AND RYE CROPS ABOVE NORMAL

Record Crop Of Pennsylvania Wheat Also Predicted By State Agricultural Official

GREAT CORN WEATHER TOO

Secretary of Agriculture, Fred Rasmussen, reports the estimated condition of crops in Pennsylvania on June 1, according to figures compiled by the Bureau of Statistics, as follows:

WHEAT—Weather conditions were favorable during the month of May and wheat still continued to improve. The condition is estimated at 105 per cent compared with normal, and forecasts a yield of 21.5 bushels per acre. On this basis, the total production will reach 33,932,800 bushels and will be Pennsylvania's record crop. The yield last year was estimated at 26,023,974 bushels.

Some damage from rust, smut and fly is reported from scattered sections but it is believed that the injury will not be serious.

The area of wheat abandoned this spring was so small that no deduction is made in the acreage on that account.

RYE—Rye is in splendid condition and forecasts 103 per cent, compared with a full crop. This indicates a yield of 19.6 bushels per acre and a total production of 5,378,000 bushels. The production last year was estimated at 4,676,500 bushels.

OATS—Due to weather conditions, the sowing of oats covered a long period this year as it was begun in March in the southern counties and was not completed in some of the northern tier counties on June 1.

The area of oats is estimated at 1,133,717 acres which is practically 100 per cent, compared with last year. The condition on June 1 is 95 per cent, compared with normal and indicates a yield of 34.2 bushels per acre and a total production of 38,773,000 bushels. The crop will probably be above or below these figures according to change in condition from now until harvest is above or below the average condition. The crop last year was estimated at 44,103,000 bushels.

BARLEY—The estimated area of barley is 14,000 acres which is the same as last year. The condition is 97 per cent, and indicates a yield of 407,400 bushels. The 1918 crop was estimated at 396,200 bushels.

HAY—The outlook for hay is encouraging and shows an improvement of four points during the month of May. On June 1, appearance indicates a yield of 97 per cent, compared with normal, or 1.5 tons per acre.

It appears that there are approximately 337,300 tons of hay in the farmers' hands. This is eight per cent, of last year's crop.

Due to the late spring the Pennsylvania farmers are facing a most strenuous season to take care of corn cultivation, wheat, rye, oats and hay harvest.

In Denmark and Sweden peat fibre is being used to make textile goods. The "peat wool" is made into matting, carpets, soles for footwear, and a variety of other things. In some cases animal hair is mixed with the fibre to give it more strength and greater wearing qualities.

The use of leather substitutes in the making of footwear, because of the present scarcity and high price of leather, recalls the fact that cork was generally used by the Roman sandal-makers for soles. It is said they sometimes applied it very thick in order to increase the stature of those ladies who wished to be thought taller than they really were.

Says We Become Cranks On Hot Water Drinking

Hopes every man and woman adopts this splendid morning habit

Why is man and woman, half the time, feeling nervous, despondent, worried; some days headachy, dull and unstrung; some days really incapacitated by illness.

If we all would practice inside-bathing, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of thousands of half-sick anaemic-looking souls with pasty, muddy complexions we should see crowds of happy, healthy rosy-cheeked people everywhere. The reason is that the human system does not rid itself each day of all the waste which it accumulates under our present mode of living. For every ounce of food and drink taken into the system nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out, else it ferments and forms poisonous poisons which are absorbed into the blood.

Just as necessary as it is to clean the ashes from the furnace each day, before the first will burn bright and hot, so we must each morning clear the inside organs of the previous day's accumulation of indigestible waste and body toxins. Men and women, whether sick or well, are advised to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of washing out of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the indigestible material, waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Millions of people who had their turn at constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, nervous days and sleepless nights have become real ranks about the morning inside bath. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will not cost much at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate to

Whistling women and crowing hens always come to some bad end" runs the old saw, while it has long been said that "he who circumventeth his neighbor in a 'hoss deal' stores up wrath for himself." Those who sort of keep track of these ancient superstitions up about the hills of Grampian, where my father fed his flock of chickens when he landed in this country several scores of years ago, had their faith in the latter abjuration strengthened by an accident which befell their "king of the hoss traders," Rolly Farwell.

Some time since Rolly traded a black horse for an old grey mare on a promise to take it back if not satisfactory plan. When the grey mare's owner rued bargain and sought to trade back there was nothing doing. However the black horse was returned and court proceedings instituted to retrieve the grey. They are still pending.

Friday last Rolly took his black horse out of the barn to give him some air and anchored him securely to a convenient telephone pole. Along came an electrical storm and with the first flash the horse fell dead. Can you beat it; well hardly.

Having been sent out with two other soldiers to scout through the village of Vaux-Audigny, Corp. Villepigue met with strong resistance from enemy machine gun fire, which killed one of his men and wounded the other. Continuing his advance, without aid, 500 yards in advance of his platoon and in the face of artillery and machine gun fire, he encountered four of the enemy in a dugout, whom he attacked and killed with a hand grenade. Crawling forward to a point 150 yards in advance of his first encounter he rushed a machine gun nest, killing four and capturing six of the enemy, and taking two light machine guns. After being joined by his platoon, he was severely wounded in the arm. Corp. Villepigue's home is with his mother, Mrs. P. T. Villepigue, 1517 Lyttleton street, Camden, S. C.
